

SIERRA REIN

"Voluptuous in both voice and body."
-BroadwayWorld.com

Sierra has enjoyed bringing battleaxe spunk, high dramatic soprano notes, and tight-harmony alto skills to theater roles across the US and seas. She waved tentacles, wands, and other objects as Ursula, Fairy Godmother, Pirates, and various high-strung Mom characters for three Disney Cruise Line ships. She's recently performed at the Ogunquit Playhouse and Goodspeed Musicals and played the "big bad" villain in the multiple award-winning short film "Better Dead Than Red."

A Californian "Port-a-jew" (half Portuguese, half Jewish), Sierra applies her granola skillset of camping, fishing, and shooting tin cans in the desert to the urban jungle of the Big Apple. There, Sierra's love of singing jazz harmony led to the development of the award-winning vocal group Marquee Five. Heralded as "The Manhattan Transfer for the new millenium*," the group debuted the album "8-Track Throwback" in 2011 and has been seen in tours around the country.

A huge Jim Henson fan, she regularly appears in person and in online comedy videos with her puppet, Kay The Pal.

She lives with her husband, Pete, and together they practice their puppetteering skills, geek out over scifi movies, and put tons of garlic in their stir-fries.

Note: If you've ever said her name out loud, you probably mispronounced it – it's spelled like "Reindeer," but is pronounced like "Rhinestone."
